Kidswear

Walmart

Walmart (WMT) is hardly known for its fashions but the discount retailer is hoping that will change at least a bit with the launch of four new house brands.From our humble beginnings as a small discount retailer in Rogers, Ark., Walmart has opened thousands of stores in the U.S. and expanded internationally. Through innovation, we're creating a seamless experience to let customers shop anytime and anywhere online and in stores.

Brand Board

wonder nation™

Walmart’s first kid-centric brand that lets kids take on all of their adventures in style, available in sizes 0-18.
Built with fun, comfort and durability in mind, Wonder Nation lets kids be kids while feeling and looking great wear after wear, wash after wash.

Forecast Board

The long-sleeved romper

Items that restore calm and rest will have a stronger appeal in the coming years (as highlighted in our Big Ideas 2024 forecast), and this will be especially relevant for the baby and toddler market. Create long-sleeved rompers from a wellness perspective, focusing on gentle gathers and tie closures that cocoon and cuddle the body. Choose fabrics that are kinder to the environment, such as natural bast fibres, hemp and certified organic qualities, echoing our Soulful Comfort trend. Knitwear brings an heirloom feel that will appeal to the resale market.

Through the collection, I emphasized developing sleep and play wear for the toddlers. Making a commercial primarily based on sleep and player for kids with some fresh prints. Generally, it said 0-2 years of kids have the most active intelligence cells however contradictory to that the kids are very reluctant to alternate their dress.
Address every issue I made the collection where kids can see what she is wearing by seeing the print and applique attached to their outfit.

The first letter that the baby utter is the word " MA" which is purely out of love and innocence. Hearing that word is most memorable moment for any mother. But contradictory to that innocent love kids when they grow up have a different uptake towards their mother.
Ma emphasis ratifying maternal love.

Theme Board

Inspiration Board

My inspiration for the collection is the bonding that a kids has with their parents or a friend. The warmest and the humbleness that each of these relationships have.

Front button desgin for easy dressing and diaper changes, footie pajamas open from neck to feet

Designed with reversible cuffed/fold-over mitten ,that can be flipped over to keep the baby's hands warm or preventing them from self-scratching.

Sportswear

Sportswear for TRAINING design collection

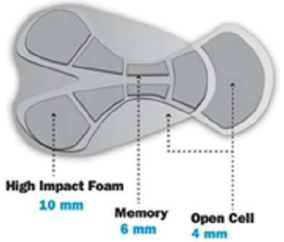
To design a menswear training range solving the problem of saddle score while cycling for spring summer 23

Defining Problem

•Saddle Sores

Saddle sores are painful skin lesions that can form on parts of the body that are in contact with a bicycle seat.

When the skin on your thighs rub against the bicycle seat during cycling, it can get chafed, resulting in redness and irritation.

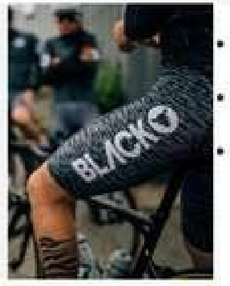


CARBON ENHANCED FOR NATURAL ANTIBACTERIALS

- Although best when blended with synthetic materials, to get the best of both worlds, Merino wool has some excellent properties that are perfect for a cycling jersey. Merino wool is naturally very effective at wicking away moisture. It will keep you cool in the summer and warm in the winter (it even helps you to stay warm when wet). Merino wool is also naturally odour resistant and antibacterial. However, it is not as effective at preventing foul-smelling bacteria as some of the modern antibacterial treatments.

- Adds stretchiness and quickly returns to original shape
- Too much Elastane and the material is not very breathable or comfortable.
- As mentioned above, it is common for manufacturers to blend a combination of fabrics can make for a cycling jersey that is high quality, warm, moisture-wicking and retains its shape after multiple uses. The most common being polyester and elastane.

- Soft to the touch, warm and strong fibres.
- Not as breathable and moisture wicking than polyester
- More expensive than polyester.



- Excellent at wicking away moisture. However, the quality can be highly variable due to the manufacturing process, So not all Polyester is the same (more on that below).

The fibres can be manufactured into different thicknesses, patterns and sizes. It is a strong fibre, but not as strong as Nylon.

- The intricate production of materials such as Polyester means that not all polyester is made to the same high quality. There are fabric producers all over the world; however, some are more well known than others due to their high-quality products and years experience in refining the perfect sportswear and fabrics. Fabric makers such as MITIand Carvico in Italy, are continually innovating and releasing high-quality fabrics that offer different characteristics. MITIs' material can be found in a lot of the best cycling jerseys.

- The fabric, certified according to Global Recycled Standard, when compared to the manufacturing of conventional / virgin polyester, mechanically-recycled polyester, per 1Kg of Woven Polyester fabric, results in:
- Approximately 62% less energy used
- About 99% less water used
- Up to 35% less waste created
- Upwards of 20% less CO2 emitted

Puma

Sportswear's design project

To design a womenswear range for PUMA solving the problem of sweating and restrictions for spring / summer 23.

For the first time ever, PUMA teams up with the iconic design house and department store Liberty to create a luxe collection of sneakers. Using Liberty's signature floral print, the Liberty x PUMA sneaker pack honors strong women and celebrates fearless feminity Liberty and PUMA came together to create a collection that serves a bigger purpose saying, "Inspired by the idea that flowers are often turned to in times of trouble, the collection takes on the theme of 'Still Growing'—celebrating the women who, much like a wildflower, are still growing and thriving despite it all Taking design elements from Toile de Jouy patterns and Asian style landscapes, the "Wild Garden" print for this collection was hand painted by Liberty's in-house team of artists in London. The landscape print displays a gorgeous scenic vista that is embellished with jewel-toned flora & fauna. This immaculate fabric covers an array of PUMA silhouettes including the Forever XT, Wild Rider, Basket, Cruise Rider, and Suede Mayu. Alongside the sneakers, the collection comes complete with a wide range of apparel and accessories.

Action points

As newness continues to slow, trend-led and mass retailers pivot collections towards thriving comfort and activewear categories.

1 2 3 4

1 Leverage online and in-store messaging to communicate additional product properties

Mentions of comfort, soft and lounge increased across trend-led retailers and resulted in a better performance than brands historically dominating this space. Remain agile and reactive and use marketing to reframe products in line with new self-care priorities as social media mentions of #wellness, #selfcare, #comfort and #lounge continue to grow

2 Be cautious of trend-led and mass stealing market share from active specialists

Non-active retailers capitalised on the lockdown-induced activewear boom by incorporating performance/tech properties into existing or new sport ranges. Shout about your specialism in this area to justify price points and communicate #twomile capabilities to rival retailers moving into this space. Adapt marketing strategies to attract Novice Runner and Considered Commute consumers

3 Capitalise on the growing home working market

Lockdowns won't last forever, but home working will continue for many in a post-pandemic world. Pivot classic careerwear categories in line with #workleisure trends and ensure comfort and multipurpose functionality underpin design. Key opportunities lie in loungewear, knits, trousers and tops. Keep an eye on the legging, as Google trends and social media data show consumers favour it over the

4 Use adaptive and multipurpose design to capture recessionary spend

Continue to use seasonless colour and print, versatile hi-lo wovens and any occasion dresses to de-risk collections. Use premium blends like cashmere to update core knits and drive up price points, in line with the Buy Better Buy Less message
